Preface

What This Digest Is

This reference aid contains a compilation of basic information available at the Secret level on foreign subnational groups and their leading members that are known, suspected, or reported to have engaged in terrorism or other forms of political violence

3.5(c)

What We Mean by Terrorism

There is no standard or internationaly accepted definition of terrorism. Nevertheless, most Western government officials and academic experts distinguish in one way or another between political violence as a general category of activity and terrorism as a particular—and particularly objectionable—subset of that category. In many countries, political dissidents themselves understand that terrorist activity differs from other forms of violent political confrontation and recognize that the adoption of terrorist tactics is a profound, possibly irrevocable, step. In using the term terrorism in this reference aid, we have tried to stay close to the following small cluster of characteristics, most of which are found in most of the many competing definitions devised by Western analysts:

> Terrorism is politically motivated, premeditated violence perpetrated against noncombatant targets by subnational groups or clandestine state agents. International terrorist acts involve citizens or territory of more than one country.

1	Directory of Organizations Terrorist groups, insurgent groups, and other organizations implicated in or suspected of involvement in political violence are listed here alphabetically according to the native-language name, English-language name, nickname, or abbreviation by which we believe they are best known in this country. In a few cases, it has been convenient to list a number of similar groups together—as [redacted] Alternative names and abbreviations are included as cross references. [redacted]	3.3(b)(1)
89	Directory of Personalities Leading members of the groups found in the Directory of Organizations, along with a few terrorists who became famous as individuals during the past 15 years, are listed here alphabetically by their true names, if known. Aliases, noms de guerre, operational names, and nicknames are included as cross references. [redacted]	3.5(c) 3.5(c)
157	Country/Nationality Index The organizational and biographical entries found in the two directories are listed here alphabetically by country, region, or nationality as appropriate. Because there are no cross references to alternative names and abbreviations in the index, it should not be used as the sole means of ascertaining whether particular groups or individuals are listed in the directories.
